

Speaker Series

The Schuyler Hall Speaker Series invites professionals from a wide range of fields to give presentations on topics of interest to a group of young professionals and college students living in New York. Past speakers have made presentations on a variety of topics ranging from economic issues to art criticism, from stem-cell research to psychology. The format is informal, with a buffet dinner followed by a 35-40 minute talk, ending with a question and answer period. The Speaker Series meets on Saturday evenings during the school year.